By WILLIAM S. DALLAS DRIDESBURG has its last chance in D the elimination series of the Phila-elphia Baseball Association tonight at Elemond and Orthodox streets. The stowners are out of it, no matter what If they turn back the weavers in this contest it will put the North Phils and Bosson in a tie for the lead at three stories and two defeats, and then the victories and two dereats, and then the champlonship will depend on the final we be played by those two teams.

Bridesburg fell a victim to the North Phillies last night at Fourth and Wingohocking streets, 3 to 2. The winners only secured four hits off Stiely and Kepner, but they came in the seventh when all their runs were scored with one down. burg counted in the fifth when Bridesburg counted in the nith when fanford doubled, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. Arbitration Board Rules That Hurler Pitched Full Contest The protest of the Lansdale-Ambler The protest of the Lansdale-Ambler ame of September 2, won by Lansdale, be 3, has been thrown out by the Montgomery County League Board of Arbitration, consisting of Connie Mack, Harold Pike and William C. Dichl.

They decided that Wilkie pitched a full game on June 17, and that the piach hitter sent into his place had no bearing on the result. Wilkie was sirned by Lansdale in the middle of line.

Since that time he has been paid for every game, and evidence was also submitted to show that he had also received compensation. The play-off game for the second half title will be played his Saturday.

Barrett, vice president and a member of the Board of Governors, resigned.

This action was taken by the uptown management after a protest regarding last night's game with the North Philies. The lie was passed several times during the course of a heated debate between the Bridesburg representatives and the head umpire of the game.

Bridesburg claimed that it was agreed before play started that in case the game was called with any inning uncompleted the score reverted back to the previous session. When the North Philies, The lie was passed several times during the course of a heated debate between the Bridesburg claimed that it was agreed before play started that in case the game was called with any inning uncompleted the score reverted back to the previous session. When the North Philies got three runs with one out in the seventh, and which would win the game, Umpire Moore called the contest. Much Confusion

Lit Brothers gave Philadelphia Terminal a fine hammering at Fifty-fourth street and Elimwood avenue. The score does not indicate the way the store boys mauled their opponents for a 6-to-4 count. Bob David was hammered to all corners for fifteen hits, while Terminal only secured four off Otto. Three came in the opening session, and with two errors and two bases on halls accounted for all of the railroaders' four runs.

Much Confusion

There was much confusion, according to the testimony. The fans yelled that if the inning was not completed the totals would revert to the previous in ning, which would make Bridesburg a 2 to 0 winner. Manager Reifsnyder, of the Phillies, was under the same impression. Bridesburg had left the field, and when Umpire Moore ordered them back again they refused, and he forgundary in the confusion.

Bridesburg, said it was the intention of the team to play tonight's game with Dobson, but that in the future they would arrange their own games and name their own umpires.

Barrett recounted how Bridesburg had always accepted the rulings and quoted many adverse and what he thought unfair rulings, and yet, he says they took them all, but last night was too much. He recalled how Bridesburg accepted the ruling of the board not to play Nativity at the start of the season, and this alone entailed a financial loss of $2000. Nativity has been after a series all season and Bridesburg only refrained for the association.

South Phills—Fleisher

The disputed game between the Fleisher Yarners and South Phils of last week, was the business that required from 9 P. M. to long after midnight to settle.

The board ruled the game be played over starting with the last half of the eighth. The same players must start and only eligible men participate.

The contest must be decided before Saturday of this week and the team refusing to abide by the decision forfeits the game. The Fleisher management, after considerable discussion, accepted the decision, but Mr. Hanley, of the South Phils, said it would have to be
